KYLI ROSS

Kyli Ross is a junior at the illustrious Morgan State University, studying health education and psychology, hailing from Prince George's County, MD.

During her four years as a member of the NCNW Morgan Section, Kyli has served in a number of roles. As treasurer, she coordinated and facilitated fundraisers to support programming. During her term as Miss. NCNW, she coordinated all service events to effect change in the greater Baltimore City community. This school year, Kyli serves as second vice president—she hopes to increase membership and sisterhood. As a member of the Morgan section of the Maryland Student Legislature, Kyli evaluates issues that should be raised to the Maryland General Assembly. As president of Black Girls Vote MSU, she leads efforts to increase voter engagement on- and off-campus with a focus on high school students and young adults.

Inspired by witnessing preventable health issues, Kyli will pursue her PhD in public health and serve as a community health leader. Kyli will establish a nonprofit and leverage advocacy and outreach to combat social determinants of health—committed to providing education and resources to improve the quality of life for Black and low-income communities.

Kyli is, a NCNW rising changemaker.
